

The Minnesota Soil Health Coalition is hiring a full-time Executive Director and part-time Field Coordinator positions.

The Soil Health Coalition in Minnesota is producer driven and has a mission to promote the principles of soil health practices. The Coalition is led by an elected board, made up of Minnesota agriculture producers across the state. The goal of the Coalition is to educate and provide outreach to agriculture producers across the state of Minnesota to improve ecosystem services such as soil health. Soil health has been recognized in Minnesota to provide multiple benefits to the environment, but also to production agriculture.

The full-time Executive Director provides leadership and coordinator of the Coalition managing communications, education, outreach, partnerships, and the farmer mentor program.

The part-time Field Coordinator aids the Executive Director while assisting producers in the field with soil health including soil health testing, technical expertise, and conservation planning.

Please see the position announcements for details and application instructions for each respective position. Applications will be accepted until Friday, February 5th.
